LETTER FROM THE EDITOR

RYAN BERGEN
Editor-in-chief

Mining happens where the minerals are found — in Canada and around the world. CIM Magazine, with its award-winning reporting on projects, operations, innovations and trends, closes the distance between the mine sites, corporate headquarters and supply and service providers. In print and online, our content shares insights, key developments and leading practices with an audience of engaged national and international industry professionals. Our publisher, the Canadian Institute of Mining, Metallurgy and Petroleum, has a growing membership of engaged minerals industry professionals with expertise throughout the mining life cycle. It is the mission of CIM to advance technology, ideas and strengthen the sector. This is what drives the work we do at CIM Magazine and is what sets us apart as an authoritative and trusted voice.
